

DOHERTY INSTITUTE STUDENT OPEN DAY

Monday, 3 September, 4.00 - 6.30pm

The Peter Doherty Institute for Infection and Immunity 792 Elizabeth Street, Ground Floor Auditorium

Join us for the Doherty Institute's inaugural Student Open Day to learn about our Honours, Masters, PhD and MPhil courses.

With over 34 research groups and more than 190 graduate research students, the Doherty Institute constitutes a diverse research community with a vast choice of projects spanning microbiology, immunology, epidemiology, clinical and translational research, infectious diseases surveillance and outbreak investigations delivered through the University of Melbourne's Department of Microbiology and Immunology.

The Doherty Institute Open Day will allow you to make informed and confident choices for your future studies by providing:

- Information on the latest student research projects, entry requirements and how to apply;
- The opportunity to meet with prospective project supervisors and current students over pizza and;
- A tour of the Institute.
